DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This communication is responsive to the amendment filed on March 1, 2005. Accordingly, claims 1-9 are currently pending in this application.

Claim Objections

1. Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities:

Claim 1, line 6, the term "external" should be described in more detail.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Karasawa (US 6,665,315).

Regarding claim 1, Karasawa teaches a cell receiving means (Fig. 3, receiving unit 20) for receiving an ATM cell from the PON downstream data (col. 4, lines 49-51) and transferring an ATM cell through a receiving interfacing means to external (col. 4, lines 49-63) and transferring a message in a PLOAM (Physical Layer Operation and Maintenance) cell to a message processing means (col. 4, lines 55-59); a cell transmitting means (Fig. 3, transmitting unit 28) for transmitting the ATM cell received through a transmitting UTOPIA interfacing means in a granted slot (col. 3, lines 66-67; col. 4, lines 1-10; granting slots for ATM cell transmission is known in the art) and transferring in upstream by loading the message being on standby in payload of the PLOAM cell when the PLOAM cell is transmitted (col. 5, lines 20-29); and a message processing means (Fig. 3, message analysis unit 24) for setting internal signals by processing the received message or instructing operation of a plurality of functional blocks (col. 5, lines 5-8; "reads and analyzes the messages... sets the delay value in the delaying unit 27"), and transferring the message requested by the plurality of functional blocks through the cell transmitting means (see Fig. 3, the path from delaying unit 27 to transmitting unit 28).

Karasawa fails to explicitly disclose a receiving utopia interfacing means.

However, utopia interfacing means in ATM systems are well known in the art for testing and operation purposes.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to include a utopia interfacing means in order to perform tests and operation functions, thus providing a more reliable system.

4. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Karasawa as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Yuki (US 6,778,557).

Regarding claim 2, Karasawa teaches a cell transmitting means.

Karasawa fails to teach a cell transmitting means using an arbitrary MAC (Medium Access Control) technique by outputting an enable signal for mini-slot payload.

Art Unit: 2667

However Yuki teaches using an arbitrary MAC (Medium Access Control) technique by enabling arbitrary data loaded in a mini-slot and outputting an enable signal for mini-slot payload and receiving a byte input signal (col. 27, lines 5-25).

In view of this, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify Karasawa's system, by enabling data loaded in a mini-slot to output an enable signal, so as to improve communications efficiency and reduce buffer memory requirements (col. 29, lines 31-33).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 3 – 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 2 have been considered and are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
